

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 A glass substrate is fixed onto a cylindrical support member (drum), the cylindrical support member is rotated (a fast scan), a laser recording head is moved in an axial direction of the cylindrical support member (a slow scan), and a laser beam is modulated and controlled like an image through the laser recording head so that an image character is recorded on the glass substrate.

10